It is a rare 18th-century plantation property with surviving elements of a 17th-century meeting house, and is one of only three such properties that survives in the state. The property was listed on the National Register of Historic Places in 2005. Description and history Calvary is a large wooded tract of farmland located in the southwestern part of Windsor, in the town of Windsor, Vermont. The main house is located on a peninsula between Round Pond and Turkey Hill Brook, with service buildings to the south and west. The property is bounded on the north by the West Branch of the West River, which is paralleled by Sandy Hollow Road. The main house is a rectangular five-bay structure, built out of hand-hewn timber and covered by a gambrel roof. The interior is a relatively unaltered 18th-century interior, with a kitchen/dining area at its center and bedroom areas on either side. A barn stands to the north, and an addition to its east. The main building is flanked on its west side by a cottage. f678ea9f9e
